Angelo da Silva „MUNDO PLASTICO“

Angelo da Silva (acoustic guitar, composition) BRA

Angelo da Silva is an outstanding guitarist from Brazil who found his home in Austria 13 years ago, where he further developed his compositional work. Following the albums FUSAO with jazz bassist Gina Schwarz (2022) and Cordas em Ritmo with percussionist Stefan Eibel (2025), he now releases MUNDO PLASTICO.

A gleaming surface. A world of polished steel and perfect plastic. Yet, behind the shimmer lies a growing unease. MUNDO PLASTICO is more than just an album; it's an invitation to question the reality we inhabit.

Through the intricate language of his guitar, Angelo da Silva explores the delicate boundary between the genuine and the fabricated. Each composition serves as a sonic chapter in this deep reflection. These pieces are a window into a world that often feels out of reach, forcing us to reconsider our place within it.

But this isn't a journey without hope. The album is also a powerful narrative of self-discovery and change. With tracks like Filho do sol and MUNDO PLASTICO, Da Silva guides us through the process of shedding layers of artifice to find our authentic selves.

MUNDO PLASTICO is a compelling soundscape for a complex age. It's a gripping and emotional voyage into the heart of our "plastic" existence, challenging us to look beyond the surface and reconnect with what is truly real.
